

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

APPENDIX 1

Similar Flags

Chad and Romania

The differences between Chad and Romania's flags are slight, and only in colour. Both feature blue, yellow, and red stripes (in that order from left to right). But the colours are different! For example, the blue on Chad's flag is hexadecimal code #00205B while the blue on Romania's is #002B7F.

Flag of Chad

Flag of Romania

Andorra and Moldova

Both Andorra and Moldova feature the blue, yellow, and red stripes like Chad and Romania. Though, they have their coat of arms smack dab in the middle to differentiate themselves.

Flag of Andorra

Flag of Moldova

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Netherlands and Luxembourg

Flag of the Netherlands

Flag of Luxembourg

Croatia and Paraguay

Flag of Croatia

Flag of Paraguay

Bahrain and Qatar

Flag of Bahrain

Flag of Qatar

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Russia, Slovenia, and Slovakia

Separated by a coat of arms, their tricolour is also Netherlands and Luxembourg's reordered.

Flag of Russia

Flag of Slovenia

Flag of Slovakia

Italy and Mexico

Flag of Italy

Flag of Mexico

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Guinea and Mali

Like Chad and Romania, the flags of Guinea and Mali feature similarly coloured strips. Their shades differ slightly, but the prime difference is the order. Guinea's flag is basically Mali's flag but in reverse (and vice versa).

Senegal's flag looks a lot like Mali's too—but they have a star in the middle

Flag of Guinea

Flag of Mali

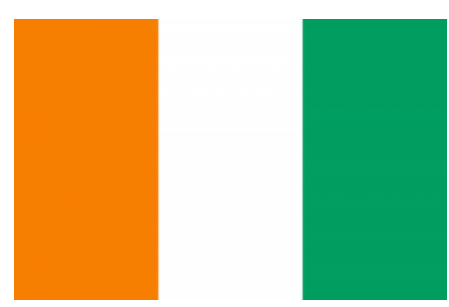

Ireland and Ivory Coast

Just like Guinea and Mali, the flags of Ireland and Ivory Coast are mirrors of each other. So similar are their flags that in March 2018, the IAAF's World Indoor Championship forgot to put up Ivory Coast's flag. Winning the gold medal for the women's 60 meter dash, Ivory Coast's Murielle Ahoure just picked up Ireland's flag and flipped it around.

Flag of Ireland

Flag of Ivory Coast

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Monaco, Indonesia, and Poland

Monaco and Indonesia's red and white stripes come in the same order, but slightly different shades—just like Chad and Romania. But this time we can throw in the Polish flag as a bonus! Like Guinea and Mali, it's a mirror of Monaco or Indonesia.

The symbolism behind Monaco and Indonesia's flags differ, though. Monaco references their coat of arms, while Indonesia's is tied to its association to the Majapahit empire.

Flag of Monaco

Flag of Indonesia

Flag of Poland

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Kenya and South Sudan

With a similar black, white, red, and green stripe pattern, the flags of Kenya and South Sudan are differentiated by a shield and star, respectively. The stripes on both flags share the same symbolic meaning—representing Pan-Africanism.

Flag of Kenya

Flag of South Sudan

Haiti and Liechtenstein

They didn't figure out how similar their flags were until the 1936 Olympics.

Flag of Haiti

Flag of Liechtenstein

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

India and Niger

Flag of India

Flag of Niger

Peru and Canada

Flag of Peru

Flag of Canada

Bolivia and Ghana

Flag of Bolivia

Flag of Ghana

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Hungary and Tajikistan

Flag of Hungary

Flag of Tajikistan

Argentina, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Honduras

Flag of Argentina

Flag of El Salvador

Flag of Nicaragua

Flag of Honduras

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Egypt, Iraq, Yemen, Sudan, and Syria

Flag of Egypt

Flag of Iraq

Flag of Yemen

Flag of Sudan

Flag of Syria

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador

Flag of Columbia

Flag of Venezuela

Flag of Ecuador

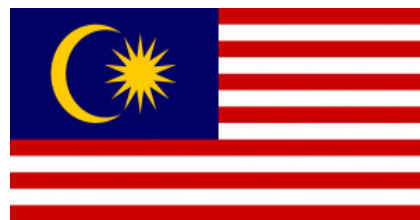

The United States of America, Malaysia, and Liberia

They each feature a different number of stripes (13, 14, and 11 respectively), but from a distance you might not be counting. The stripes also mean different things. America's stripes represent the 13 original colonies, Malaysia's represent its member states, while Liberia's represent the signatories of the Liberian Declaration of Independence.

Flag of the USA

Flag of Malaysia

Flag of Liberia

STATE OF KNIGHTS OF THE
SOVEREIGN ORDER OF SAINT JOHN OF JERUSALEM OF
FEDERATION OF THE AUTONOMOUS PRIORIES
KNIGHTS OF MALTA (KMFAP)

Magisterial House

Norway and Iceland

Sharing the same design and colours (but coloured a little differently), Norway and Iceland's flags are similar thanks to their Danish origins.

Flag of Norway

Flag of Iceland

Australia and New Zealand

Their flags are similar thanks to the whole "being British colonies once" thing.

Flag of Australia

Flag of New Zealand

